PRACTICE SUMMARY

Jason serves as general and special counsel to hospitals, long-term care facilities, home health and hospice organizations, physician practices, individual practitioners, and mental health counselors. He advises healthcare clients on regulatory, compliance, patient care, credentialing, corporate, licensure, government investigations, employment and other issues. In his outside counsel role, he advises on patient care and risk management issues such as the drafting, design and implementation of patient safety plans, peer review procedures, patient care policies, facility operation and compliance policies, and medical staff bylaws. He routinely reviews guardianship matters, powers of attorney, HIPAA and/or state privacy law issues, and credentialing matters.

Jason is also an experienced trial attorney who focuses his trial practice on medical malpractice defense, insurance coverage disputes, complex tort and other civil litigation. He has obtained a significant number of favorable verdicts as trial counsel in state and federal courts in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Jason also appears before administrative licensing boards. In addition, Jason advises the firm's clients regarding intellectual property issues, privacy law challenges and electronic commerce. His work as appellate counsel includes successful argument before the Rhode Island Supreme Court in a case that established the state's first Police Civilian Review Board and a leading case regarding expert evidentiary issues in the Federal Court of Appeals for the First Circuit.
